Sustainable Tourism policy

Socially beneficial practices

Everything in Peuma Hue tries to involve a social, environmental and community development practice and consciousness. When we arrived to the area we fostered social development among our neighbors by bringing in a power line and thus being able for all of them to have access to electricity for the first time. We hired many local people from around the property to work with us and fostered a new quality of life in people who lived with a very basic economy and survival practices. We also try to promote a community conscience within our staff enabling a support network among us, providing housing for staff and their families, education and economic growth.

Environmentally beneficial practices

The property, even though within the National Park, was completely abandoned with cattle grazing and illegal lumbering and fishing going on before we arrived. Since our arrival, native forest is coming back, we are eradicating introduced species, controlled illegal lumbering and fishing and foster environmental practices in those living in or visiting the property. Maintaining the purity of our waters is a must for us, guarding our centennial forests, guarding the place as a whole.

Practices that financially benefit the local community

Since our arrival we gathered tour operators and hotel owners within the south end of the National Park creating an association that fosters a different kind of tourism, environmentally conscious, with small groups, personalized service and a strong love and passion for the area. We thus started a joined collaboration to develop and promote the area in a different way which gave way to the formation of similar groups in the area. We foster collaboration and join efforts with other companies and organizations. We belong to another association of small socially responsible businesses & founded the active tourism board and active tourism corporate bureau in our town. We assist local NGOs focused in culturally diverse and integrated educational programs, providing labor to their students from native and rural origin to practice the learning they acquired.

Health & Wellbeing beneficial practices

Staying at Peuma Hue is healthy in itself. Without necessarily formal practices, it is highly common for our guests to undergo personal transformation, deeply felt experiences, deep connections to other people, animals, Nature and within themselves with an expanded feeling of Peace and Connection. Everything around fosters this: a powerful energy walking through the forest & mountains, the purity of our water, the silence, the Magnificence and Beauty of Nature around; the special warm, caring and welcoming service of our staff; the delicious, balanced and healthy meals prepared with organic vegetables from our garden by our angel chef Manuela Luna; the connection with our animals; all the activities guided with care, love and passion. It is a “natural Spa”, enhanced also by other services we offer such as massages, healing, meditation, Yoga & Tai Chi, Personal Development Workshops, Connection to the elements.

Guest Book Selection

We combine the striking beauty of our National Park, close contact with Nature, deluxe accommodations, the experience of being at home in our houses and log cabins, all types of outdoor activities; exquisite home-made, healthy, balanced organic & delicious meals, and an exclusive service with a personal touch that allows our guests to live through unforgettable experiences. Witness to this is our Guest Book with wonderful testimonials:

To Evelyn, Sofia and all the staff at Peuma Hue,

This is a place that reminds you of what it is to be human. The grandeur of nature, the harmonious company of animals, the opportunities offered by deep conversation with people from all over the globe.

We thank you so much for bringing us into your family.

With love & appreciation

There is eco-tourism and eco-tourism. Peuma Hue is eco-tourism with class, with elegance, with refinement. The attention to detail, the perfect scenery, the peace and quiet, the freedom and joy of the rabbits, the puppies and the horses, the friendliness of the staff and the extremely delicious food (which I unsuccessfully tried to stop eating when my jeans started shrinking) make this place a piece of Heaven. We've been looking for it for many years. Who would have thought that our place of dreams was somewhere down in Argentina? ☺

When we flew to Bariloche I didn't know we were going to land in Heaven. This place is amazing. We love everything here. We really enjoyed all our activities, from daily horse riding to fly fishing, sailing on a ducky, the ropes course, Yoga and the well deserved massages. This is an unforgettable place. We'll be back.

We had an amazing time! The scenery, the animals, the people, the activities, the accommodations, the food, the wine – everything was perfect and exceeded our expectations. I love the animals and how they roam freely on the property. Highlights included the Cathedral trek to Frey, the river rafting, the food / wine, playing poker with the Smiths, Paul & Claire, the Swedish family; the escorts from Alpha, etc. Evelyn & staff, thank you for creating such a wonderful place & experience.

I hope to return!

Our family has really appreciated all activities in the fields (riding), in the heights (trekking and climbing), in the lake (kayaking and swimming), on the bench (massage) and the Yoga! Thank you for sharing your daily life with us – including the contact with your 4-legged friends.

Next generation (Oliver 4 ½ and Moritz 1 ½) got a very good impression of what life is all about at its best – a very good start in life!

Patagonia and Peuma Hue seem light years away from where I live in the Far East in Hong Kong and Malaysia. But the special spirit of this place of dreams: protected by your own sacred mountain, energized by your own special waters and beloved by the extraordinary care and attention given by Evelyn, Sophie, Marcelo, Caroline and all the staff – has traversed thousands of miles of distance, time and space for me.

I know I will return to walk up D´Agostini mountain to drink its wonderful glacial spring waters, I know I will return to feel the energy of the Coihue trees and Peuma Hue itself and I know I will return to hear the heartbreaking squeal of your Patagonia winds! Many, Many thanks Evelyn for sharing Peuma Hue with us!!

Well Evelyn and your fantastic staff... What can we say?

We arrived 7th November, wind, rain and later snow. Jude and I thought what are we doing here at Peuma Hue?!!

The next morning we knew why this is called the "Place of Dreams". The weather had changed and we were catered for by the wonderful staff here at Peuma Hue. Everything has been wonderful! Food, horse riding, fishing. This is not a place of dreams, it must be heaven.

Thank you all and we will be back!

An experience I had with my ten year old son yesterday sums our collective feelings of this spiritually moving place. As he and I walked across the lawn from the lake in the late afternoon, we looked to the spire rocks above and he said to me, "this feels like Heaven..... I hope Heaven is this nice....". We feel blessed to have experienced such a pristine world of the cleanest air, purest water and fantastic unspoiled vistas. You all are wonderful stewards to some of the last places on earth that have not suffered from the ever dangerous behaviors of man. Thank you for sharing, thank you for embracing our children's infinite wonder at a place so beautiful, and thank you for your generous and truly genuine warm welcome. It is our dream to return to share another brisk night, moonlight glowing in the stream, the lake and illuminating the fields of snow high above. Simple magic on Earth.

Thanks so much

My, oh my. Where to start? Though our stay was limited to two nights, I can honestly say that I have never felt so at home while traveling abroad. From the moment that the sweet and gracious Evelyn greeted us we knew we were in for something far from the ordinary. I can't imagine anywhere in the world that can offer such a perfect union of activity & relaxation. Please keep doing what you're doing and always remain a destination that is "hard to define". Peace, love and happiness,

I don't want to go! Already planned when I'm coming back and I can't wait. I was supposedly working while here, running a Yoga retreat, but I feel like I've been on vacation with old friends. Never have I brought a group to do a workshop or retreat to a place where I felt so supported or with such a shared vision of the experience I would like for my students to have. Every wish was granted, half of the time before it was even spoken. From Evelyn the owner to Samuel the gardener and everyone in between (whom I'm too scared to name for fear of forgetting someone special!) you truly went above and beyond and could not have been more accommodating or warmer. Bobby, you hold a special place in my heart, you funny-looking mutt. ♥

In this place of incredible natural beauty you have managed to create something awe-inspiring. For perfect strangers from around the world to make lasting connections over canapés and Scrabble is very rare. At first I thought it was the side-effect of the (delicious) wine, but it soon became clear that the warmth exuded by the hosts – the way you treat guests like family members – melts cynicism within hours of arrival. And of course the rainbows, kittens, waterfalls and foal don't hurt....

Thank you! I hope to be back soon.
